

"Gone"

Jessica Campbell/Raquel Warchol

Copyright 2013

I longed to be the girl you wanted me to be
To make you happy I'd do anything
So I always took it when you pointed the blame
Like every problem you had ended with my name

But I like me better when I am myself
I tried so hard to be someone else
It feels so good but it sounds so wrong
My life is better now that you are gone

Where in your little world did I fit in?
The things I wanted never made your list
But I never said a word, just played it safe
& held on for dear life hoping you would change

But I like me better when I am myself
I tried so hard to be someone else
It feels so good but it sounds so wrong
My life is better now that you are gone

Innocent mistake, nothing like heartbreak to show me who I am

You had your reasons and I had my own
Something about you never felt like home
I was so afraid that I'd be all alone
My skies are brighter now that you've (we've) moved on

I'm finally free now that I can say
My life is better since you went away