

"The Anchor & The Sail"

Jessica Campbell/Ruth Collins

Copyright 2013

I see you looking at the wind like you wanna run
Staring out over the water like your dreams are getting farther
You don't long for me the way that you did before Cause I've tried to turn you into something Watching love fade into nothing

When all of a sudden I see
The one who is broken is me

But, What if I am the anchor and you are the sail
And you've been trying to move
Trying to do something
And I've been holding you right here
You wanna go, You wanna go
But I wish you would stay
Is it the time to cut the ties
and watch you fly away

There was a time we swore that we would never settle down
Young and crazy you and me, Freer than the open seas
I never thought I'd be the one to ever let you down
It'll break my heart to watch you leave
But that's how this has to be

But, What if I am the anchor and you are the sail
And you've been trying to move
Trying to do something
And I've been holding you right here
You wanna go, You wanna go
But I wish you would stay
Is it the time to cut the ties
and watch you fly away

You wanna go
You wanna go
And I wish you would stay